Crowd Pleasers

When you host any event, it presents a golden opportunity for you to showcase your space and your taste, but none of that matters if you don't have an environment where everyone is comfortable. Whether that means providing enough actual seating or laying down a welcoming rug, so guests can get cozy on the floor, you want to make sure that there are plenty of places to relax.

Fun Foundation

Play Hard

As a hub of activity, your TV console functions in multiple ways to entertain. In addition to housing the feature presentation, it can store board games for heated competitions between you and your besties. With glass front doors, your collection stays on full display and is easily accessible for quick rotations and uninterrupted transitions.

Storage Sidekick

For a truly seamless entertaining experience, you need to have all of your hosting essentials within reach. A wine cabinet like this allows you to create a beverage center of sorts, so guests can help themselves to drinks and more. Perfect for bringing function and purpose to any corner of the room, the design is exceptionally versatile.

Let's Gather

Part of making a space ready for company is ensuring all of your furnishings are inviting. In addition to designs that inspire a sense of ease, you can incorporate pieces like a lift-top coffee table, which offers a variety of uses for you and guests to enjoy. Not only does it serve as a perch for fun and games, it levels up to provide the perfect snacking surface while you're sitting on the sofa. As another bonus, it has storage for books, magazines and more.

Spread the Word

As you count the RSVPs to your parties, it's important to stay on top of seating options for your guests. From sofas, to accent chairs, to stools, there are plenty of ways to accommodate everyone. You can even mix things up with complementary colors and materials that elevate the atmosphere and bring personality and variety to your space.

Raise the Bar

When you're entertaining, the line between lounging, dining and gaming blurs, and one space becomes the destination for a little bit of everything. That's why we love designs like this breakfast bar set. You get to be a part of the action while also doing your own thing - whether that's playing chess or sipping on seltzers. Two stools and a drop-leaf extension add even more convenience and flexibility.
